Friday 13 November 2020

Dear parents and carers,
It was lovely to chat to some of you at the gate this week. We do miss having parents into school at the moment. Don't forget that we are here for you if you have anything you need to tell us or if you need any support. Just call or email and we will do our best to help.

Best wishes
Liz Hayward
Headteacher

Camden Poetry Competition—Hate Crime Awareness Week

Well done Year 6! The children wrote some beautiful poems and won a prize of £70 for the best poems. They discussed their ideas first in class with their teachers. What inspiring thoughts that bode well for the future of our country.

I have printed some poems on the next page.

Parent teacher meetings (by phone)

Great attendance again! Thank you so much for your support. 98% of parents spoke to their child's teacher about their progress.

Camden's communities

First, take your diversity and sprinkle some respect on it,
This will make it taste sweeter after adding the nationalities.

Then leave to marinate,

Next, you put some mouth-watering friendship in a pan and add your marinated diversity,

Turn up the heat then after 5 minutes, let it simmer while you chop up some welcoming smiles.

Make sure that as soon as the diversity turns golden-brown, you take it out and smother it with finely chopped smiles,

If you treat everything fairly the results will be extraordinary (adding a generous amount of unity will make the results even more beautiful).

After that, put the diversity aside and make a lovely freedom puree,

For more variation, add some leadership!

Then plate it up and enjoy!

WARNING: An unequal spread of equality will leave a bitter, unpleasant taste, all ingredients deserve equality!

Equality in communities

First take a blend of different cultures and mix together with communities

Place delicately over the borough of Camden

Stir vigorously and add a pinch of welcoming, warm smiles and voices

Turn up the heat until its steaming and bubbling with excitement

Add a small handful of happiness

Let it simmer and then watch closely as it creates something truly beautiful

Allow it to calmly cool down and then add some respect for the environment

Be nice, let other people have a fair chance

Serve with kindness, justice and equality

Warning: This recipe won't work until every ingredient is treated right!
